

Why use a Staffing Service?

The answer is simple...by partnering with a staffing service that understands your company and your needs, you are able maximize the efficiency of your time during the hiring process. Think about it. If you do not use a service, what happens? You advertise, you ask staff and business partners for referrals and you wait for the response. If you get inundated with replies, you risk missing the best candidate in the big stack of resumes you have collected. Or, you may only get candidates that want a job but do not have the skills or talents needed for your position. Days have now passed and your position is vacant possibly effecting how your company and staff can serve your customers.

Godshall Staffing Services can get you qualified resumes immediately as they can source their vast database of candidates gathered from referrals, Internet and our website. Also, Godshall won't miss the great candidate in the stack of resumes because we have time to interview everyone – that's what we do – every day, all day. We also pride ourselves on getting good in-depth references as well as checking criminal background and credit history when appropriate.

When you call us, our two main goals are to ease your hiring process and to make long-term placements. We do hope to make one thing difficult and that is your final decision. We have had many clients that are so impressed with the candidates that we present that they end up hiring two employees when they just had one opening.

Another reason to use a staffing service is to get a guarantee on your hiring decision. We have a no fault guarantee. If for any reason a person leaves the position in the first ninety days, we will find another candidate at no additional charge. If you hired on your own, you would have to reinvest your time and money in finding a new candidate.

One more reason to utilize a staffing service is when you need to hire confidentially. We pride ourselves on confidentiality. We can recruit by telling candidates about the position without revealing your company name until you are ready to interview. We are also able to provide clients with professional interviewing space in our office anytime.

Godshall has been partnering with companies in the Upstate of South Carolina for over forty years. We have been honing our skills through the years. We go to conferences to learn best practices and offer continued training to our staff. We are constantly upgrading our technology to serve our clients better.

So to the question, why use a staffing service, we hope you say – why wouldn't you!
